Headmaster's Message

One of the key undertakings taking place in the College during the 2018/19 school year was the creation of a new Strategic Plan. While this work may not have been part of the day-to-day experience for most of our community, it was guided by community consultation and undertaken with the wise counsel of a small group of faculty, staff, Board members and parents who love Royal St. George's and are committed to see it continue to thrive and grow.

Part of the process included a new articulation of the Values of the College. As I consider my own memories of the 2018/19 school year, one sentence from these renewed values stands out to me:

We believe that each boy should be known and loved and that learning takes place within relationships. Our boys bring all of themselves to school. Their unique character should be seen and honoured. We believe joy and laughter belong here.

This edition of The Georgian is a manifestation of these values in action. It beautifully captures the essence of the day-to-day at RSGC.

I am so grateful to Tim Hutton for his commitment as Editor-in-Chief of the Georgian and providing for all of us, and generations to come, this important archive of another magical year.

Stephen Beatty '86

This year's Georgian was made with contributions from:

Will Rochon (photo selection and processing)

Jack Smith (the school shield and dragon image on the cover)

Gustavo Gonzalez (photo selection and processing)

Photos in the yearbook were taken by many contributors, including Tom Stevens, Gustavo Gonzalez, and Will Rochon. CanGrad Studios provided all student portraits.

Emilie Toguri retired from the position of junior school art teacher after many years of service. We wish her well.

Jennifer Kelly (on the left), departed RSGC at the end of this school year. Her years of service to the Modern Languages program and athletics are appreciated by everyone.

Other departing staff include Holly Clarke (Advancement), Gustavo Orozco (Kitchen), and Shannon Wainman (Finance).

Grade 5 & 6 Memories & Favourite Things

I enjoyed playing in the snow.

I liked going to Camp Pine Crest.

When I heard we were starting classroom economy I was very excited.

I enjoyed the climbing wall at Camp Pine Crest.

I enjoyed the early explorers biography project.

My favourite time was meeting my friend Lucas on the first day of school.

I enjoyed when Mr. Story did magic tricks and told funny jokes.

I liked making new friends.

I really enjoyed going to Camp Pine Crest in late September. It was a great time to get to know the new Georgians and truly connect with each other. After we came back, we were incredibly excited to get the year started.

I liked the UCC hockey tournament and the downtime between games.

I enjoyed the DES.

I liked when we did medical design.

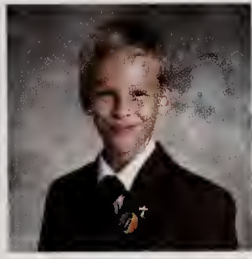

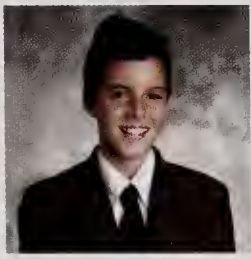

I enjoyed being on teams every term.

I remember playing in the hockey game and winning third place.

A wise man once said "build a bridge and get over it" - Justin Anderson

Colton Aristone

Like I am sure many of my other peers will mention: I am so grateful to have been a part of the RSGC community. Whether it be the classic jokes in Mr. Donnelly's Econ class or running a 10K with Ms. Jessani, the small connections with every student and faculty member made RSGC unique from any other school. Now that I have covered the generic "I am happy to have gone here" I wanted to leave a message for my graduating peers. Boys, no matter what you do, make sure it is something you love. Continue to be the hard-working, kind and fun people I will remember for the rest of my life. Surround yourself with positive figures who can help you grow just like you guys have helped me. Never lose sight of your goals and aspirations but most importantly never lose sight of your morals. While it is extremely corny, I will leave you with a quote from the one and only Abraham Lincoln: "Things may come to those who wait, but only the things left by those who hustle". Go out into the world and hustle until you thrive in your environment. Every one of you has the potential to change the world, so change it for the better. I could not have asked for a greater group of guys to graduate with. Thanks for everything RSGC.

I would like to take this small fraction of time to thank everyone who has been a part of this chapter in my life; my parents, teachers and friends. You have all changed me so much as a person, and for that I am grateful. I leave you today with a healthier alternative to a yearbook classic, as a token of my gratitude.

Graydon's Great Gluten Free Good-morning Pancakes

Ingredients

- * All purpose gluten free flour blend (omit xanthan gum if using Bob's Red Mill 1:1)
- * 2 large eggs at ROOM TEMPERATURE
- * Avocado OR canola oil
- * Vanilla extract

Step 1. Whisk together the dry ingredients.

Step 2. In a separate large bowl, whisk together the wet ingredients.

Step 3. Combine the dry ingredients into the wet ingredients. Stir until completely combined.

Step 4. Preheat a skillet to medium-low heat. Scoop about 1/4 cup of batter onto the griddle, to form the round pancakes.

Step 5. Cook the batter until small bubbles form on the top, then flip over.

Step 6. Cook until golden brown and then serve.

RSGC has been an experience of a lifetime, and there are countless reasons as to why I will never forget this place. Yet, by the odd chance that I do, I thought that there would be no better place to cement why I love RSGC but here.

Here is why I love RSGC:

- Wall Ball (On the Grate Wall)
- Breakfast Sandwiches
- Dr. Lambersky & Mr. Donnelly
- Halo MD Bumper Cars
- Snow shoe Racing at Winter Skills
- Yanni's Water-bottle
- Botched Animal Farm Re-enactments
- National Geographic & Mini-Sticks

Luke Conrod

The only thing I remember from science class: "Waking up is the second hardest thing in the morning"

- Albert Einstein

Shout out to Mr. Donnelly for being a great Econ teacher for two years, and all of the other teachers who helped me not fail.

Monty Cook

The more doors you open the more you understand this universal truth: your potential is limitless.

- David Goggins

James Corley

My experience at RSGC has definitely changed me. I found passions in hardware and software, I grew to love English, despite my lack of spelling, grammar and essay writing skill, I almost figured out how to not be late and after two years of chemistry and physics classes, I even learned a bit about them too. In all seriousness, though I might not singularly say it, I am extremely grateful for all my teachers and what you have done for me. Your impact is far deeper than just the subject you taught. It's been a great few years.

Have a good one.

I can't believe its finally the end of my time at RSGC. I'm going to miss this place. I want to thank all of the teachers who helped me along the way and all the friends who made this place feel like a second home.

Big shoutout to whoever makes the breakfast sandwiches - they got me through every morning.

This one is for the lads.

Kreher Fiset-Algarvio

I have been here at RSGC since grade 10 and what a wonderful three years it has been. I am very grateful to have had the opportunity to attend this amazing school. I couldn't have asked for anything better. I would like to thank all of my teachers and coaches for guiding me and helping me through my final years at school. They have not only taught me how to become the best student I can be, but they have also taught me how to become the best Georgian I can be.

I would also like to thank my parents for sending me to this wonderful place, and also for their undying support in making my high school experience the best it can possibly be. I just wish that it did not have to end so soon. I would like to thank all of my brothers for making school fun. A special thanks goes to Mr. D'Arcy for helping me and supporting me to find my true passion. I spent more time in the DES than any other room in the entire school combined....it was my second home.

The best moments in life are the ones that are remembered. It will be impossible for me to forget these last few years.

I may be one of the luckiest boys in the world to be in the position that I am. To be raised by the teachers and community around me and I am forever grateful to every faculty in this school. You've given me a sense of belonging and that in itself is priceless. Shoutout to every teacher that made me laugh, shoutout to every teacher that went out of their way to make sure I was having a good day because you've given me a piece of heart that I will keep for the rest of my life. Thank you.

I remember walking into RSGC on the first day of grade seven. I had no idea what to expect from this place. I would never have imagined how much of a positive impact this school would have on me. A huge thank you to my parents for giving me the opportunity to learn and grow in such an amazing place. What makes RSGC so special is the people. Thank you to all of the teachers and staff who have helped guide me through my RSGC career. A special thank you to Dr. Evans, Mr. Algarvio, and Mr. Beatty. Dr. Evans, my advisor, has been a great mentor and friend throughout my time in the Senior School. Mr. Algarvio has always been there for me despite having to put up with my antics all these years, and Mr. Beatty has played such a significant role in my life, even before I ever started at RSGC. Finally, thank you to my friends who made my time here so enjoyable. So to everyone who was a part of my RSGC experience, thank you. It would not have been the same without you.

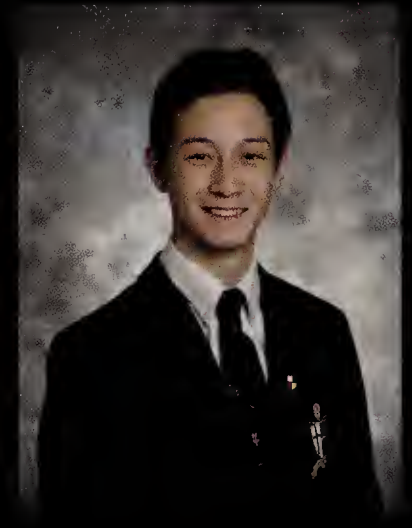

Shout out J Don

Jason Hancock

Words could never express what you've meant to me. I was just a 12 year old kid from midtown Toronto when we first met, but you took me in and embraced me as one of your own. I am so grateful for the Love and Passion you've given me over the past 6 years. All I ever wanted to do was to duplicate it 10x over to show my appreciation. Thank you RSGC, thank you to all the people who make this place special.

Allan Hodgson

What a rollercoaster of events high school has been for me. From all the highs to all the lows, from stressful P4 tests to group projects that built friendships, highschool has been a whirlwind and seems to have gone by in a blink of an eye. As I look back on my experience here, I can't help but think about the person I was, and the person i've become. From a shy boy being praised for a reading log and words list he did in one night, to a young man falling asleep in Biology class I can honestly say I owe a lot to this place and the people in it who have shaped me into who i am. Firstly, a huge shoutout goes to out my french class and the fantastic four consisting of, Dan the man, Spence, Will Mc'Fit and Ms. Kelly. Secondly, thanks is in order for the work of the entire science department in making chemistry and biology a ton of fun. Finally, I want to thank this amazing graduating class, excluding Wope and TP because they distracted me every single spare, for making highschool truly amazing. Wish you guys all the best next year. Can't wait for the reunion.

Your truly,

The class of 2019 has gone through a bunch of twists and turns throughout our journey. From reddit pages, to lunch cards, to instagram posts, to snap stories, to choking numerous playoff games in multiple sports to Greenwood, to some brutal fantasy basketball teams, I will always remember how our grade handled things. Shoutout to Mr. Chow for exposing my physics test average, Ms. Ghoreshy for never sending me to the office, Mr. Rankin for carrying me through grade 9 and 10 science, and Mr. Gordon for bringing pizza to every math class. Proud to be with these guys who have been through it all with me. See you guys later.

Simply put, RSGC has provided me with the best education that I could have asked for. Regardless if it was inside or outside of the classroom the possibilities were limitless. Thanks to Ms. Girvan for the Outdoor Ed. opportunities and the countless memories that came with it, as well as Mr. Kotecha and Mr. Blanchette for their constant support in the Entrepreneurship club. While there are many others to thank for supporting me over my 6 year RSGC career, the ones who made it possible are my parents. And finally, to the 58 other grads, that I can call my brothers. You've done so well, in fact, that I've received some interesting offers for your services. Ordinarily I wouldn't contemplate them, but these are extraordinary times. Rather than offer you the illusion of free choice, I will take the liberty of choosing for you if and when your time comes round again. I do apologize for what must seem to you an arbitrary imposition, Dr. Freeman. I trust it will all make sense to you in the course of... well, I'm really not at liberty to say. After eight incredible years at the Royal College, I find it difficult to fully express my gratitude for everything that the school has done for me. I can however, give special mention to members of the RSGC community who helped me in immeasurable ways. First, I'd like to recognize Mr Jamieson for his incredible work with the choir. Of every program offered by the college, this was by far the influential and memorable to me. I am deeply grateful to have been a part of it. Second, I'd like to commend Dr. Lambersky and Mr. Chow on their work with AP Research. Their dedication and effort has inspired me countless times, and benefitted me greatly. Finally, I'd like to thank Mr. Thornbury and Ms. Kaye, for helping me a great deal and for acting as my mentors. In the end, my time here has been incredible, thank you to everyone who made it so.

Ms. Ghoreshy's Favourite Jackass (but the good kind)

In all seriousness, my time here at RSGC has been quite simply transformative. It is fair to say that the man I am now is due in no small part to the people I have been learning from and talking to for these past 4 years. When I first arrived, I knew no one in my class, but now I can confidently say that I know each and every guy, and that is something truly special. I would be remiss if I didn't acknowledge my teachers, of which many probably put more effort into my learning than I myself did. Such as Mr. Farrar, who actually made history enjoyable, and Ms. Hart who has, realistically, been too kind to me. So many different people, each with their own unique quirks, are what make this community that I am now apart of so wonderful. As I wrap up this little quote, I just want to give a shout out to Mr. Beatty, the head honcho, who has still never given me a single birthday card in all 4 years, despite all his promises to do so. But I'm not bitter. No sir.

I spend four years at RSGC, during that time I learned many skills like manners, cooperation, and how to be productive. I thank all my teachers and peers that helped me become the person I am today, and continue helping me become the person that I hope to be. Thanks to the boys for some of the best years of my life and putting a smile on my face everyday; life is short, so smile while you still have teeth.

I've learned a great deal in these halls. I've learned how to develop a style of writing that is both eloquent and bombastic by nature, granting myself a fictitious, yet utterly convincing facade of high intelligence. Importantly, I've learned why it is that the manners do indeed maketh the man. I want to thank Mr. Hutton for fostering my interest in political science and for his uplifting lectures on genocide. I want to thank Ms. Johnson, Mr. Wade West and Mr. Martin for their inspiration and constant support throughout my high school music career. I can't imagine what my time at RSGC would have been like without band. Finally, of course, I want to thank my parents for their help and encouragement that allowed me to finish this year especially, on a strong note. "Just smile and wave boys, smile and wave" - Skipper

"Rarely is the question asked: Is our children learning?" (George W. Bush, 2000) The answer to that question is yes, our children ARE learning (you see what I did there?). I have learnt more in my four, short years at RSGC than I learnt in the rest of my life. I've learnt about myself, about others and most importantly, I've learnt how to learn. I would never have been able to achieve this tremendous amount of learning without help from Dr. Leatch's 20 minute movielands, the facts and feelings in Ms. Hart's AP English, the GANKS!! in Dr. Death, the proficiency in Excel gained in Mr. Kotecha's business class, the fiestas in Señora's Spanish class, the sermons given in chapel by Father Donkin, the I-don't-play-loud-music-after-lunch from Mrs. Johnson, and from the class long, off topic lectures from Mr. Darvasi in both Studies in Literature and Media Studies. The learning at RSGC is indescribable; I will cherish it forever. In addition to the amazing teaching, one of my biggest takeaways from my four years at RSGC was the concoction of a phrase that could get me out of nearly anything with zero questions asked: "We have a ____ (insert, test or summative assessment) that day? Can't make it; Jewish Holiday.

Thomas Partridge

I would just like to briefly thank everyone who helped me get to where I am today. Through the bonds I have made with teachers and friends, and the lessons I have learned from many experiences, I have gotten so much out of this crazy trip. Picking RSGC as my middle school back in grade 6 was probably the best decision I have made to this day, and I will cherish everything I have learned here, from the crazy grade 12 tri-sci grind to just simple manners. It was at RSGC that I learned about my interests in the sciences, and by dwelling into the fields more, I have grown to adore them. For anyone who wonders about their careers in the future and what life holds for them, here is a simple quote that resonated with me and helped me decide what I wanted to do. "Choose a job you love, and you will never have to work a day in your life."
- Confucius

Stefan Petrovic

They say time flies when you're having fun. High school was no exception. As I look back on my high school career, I'm both happy and sad to see it come to an end. Happy because opportunity awaits as you enter the next phase of your life: university. But, at the same time, sad because there is a part of me that doesn't want high school end. The friendships and memories I will take away from this place are truly special. Whether if it's last minute studying for a test or even partying late with your boys (doing things I forbid to say), all of these memories will be cherished forever.

As for the teachers, I want to thank all of you for the past four years. Despite Mr. Baron failing me on my grade 11 physics exam and my advance functions mark dropping 13% in a span of less than a week, you've all given me your attention and took the time to help me when I needed it the most. As I end my grad quote, in my eyes, the class of 2019 is truly a special class. That's not to sugarcoat anything. These past four years have been nothing short of spectacular. But this isn't the ending, but rather the start of a new chapter. If I see you at university, I'll see you soon. If not, goodbye for now. In the words of Dr. Suess, "don't cry because it's over. Smile because it happened."

Gents, it has been an honour to meet every one of you. We've done some truly great things over the past 4 years, living through RJ's interpretive dance on the 3rd day of grade 9, "just thinking about it" when Tao tries to explain something to us, or surviving the curse of the pigeon lady.

Seriously though Reid - after getting whacked by a newspaper from her, you might want to see a bishop about getting a counter-blessing or whatever.

In actual seriousness, we all have the potential to do great things. Take Sergei Korolev for example, imprisoned and sent to the gulag by the USSR; yet he managed to design the first liquid fuel rocket, satellite, and first piloted spacecraft. There is currently a portrait of him in the international space station.

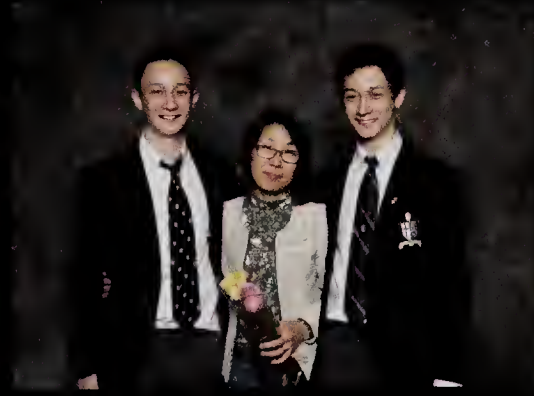

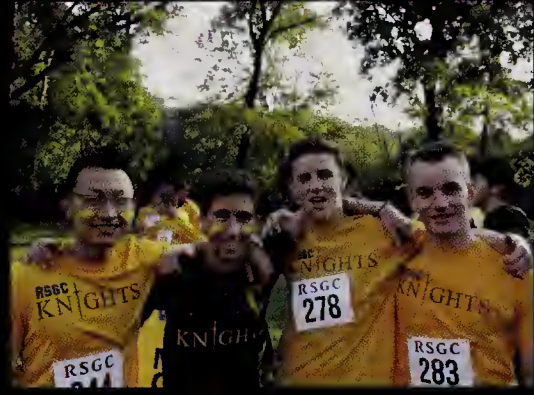

I hope that one day the faces of the people you see in this book will also one day be framed among the stars.

Head Prefect's Graduation Address

Delivered June 12, 2019

Fail early, and fail often.

As I stand up here and look across the crowd, all I can think is, "Wow, what a bunch of failures." No, there wasn't a slip of the tongue, my mic didn't cut out, and no bugs flew in your ears. I said failures, and I'll say it again. You probably took great offense to that, and that is kind of what I am trying to get at today. But before I can reconstruct your interpretation of the word failure, a small tale from my past.

Once upon a time, grade 11 to be exact, I applied to a summer program at Notre Dame. This summer course was a very exciting opportunity to me, as Notre Dame was my top choice for US colleges. Well, for about a month, till I looked at schools in California, where the climate was, oh, marginally warmer than that of South Bend, Indiana. I digress. The point was, this program was huge for me. And so, I wrote the essays, filled out the information, and waited. And waited. And waited. Until one fateful day in April, I received an email from Notre Dame. It couldn't have been longer than a tweet, and it read something along the lines of "blah blah blah after careful consideration, yadda yadda, regret to inform you, bleep blop, not a reflection of your character; very competitive applicant pool." You know, all the rejection verbiage I would soon become very familiar with.

Anyway, I didn't get in. I probably should have the email memorized by now, as I probably read it 20 times hoping it would change. I figured it must have been a mistake. So, once I realized it was for real, I moped about for a couple days. And then I told my baseball coach at the time about the whole process. I poured my heart out onto this unsuspecting guy, who was patient. I expressed my frustrations with him, and how I felt like a failure, the word I used to address every student in my graduating class when I got up here. He sat for a second, contemplating, not saying anything at all. His first question was "have you never gone through this before?". I was taken aback by his question. But the more I thought about it, this was my first significant failure. I mean sure, I'd lost finger painting competitions as a yute, I'd gotten some pretty brutal marks on math tests, science tests... French tests, art tests even. But this was the first failure that felt real, and had real world implications. And so more than anything, and more than ever before, I felt like a failure.

Failure, again the word I used to address all of my brothers when I got up here, is a word with such negative connotations. Even as it leaves my mouth my heart sinks a little, the word tastes sour on the way out. But then I think about the advice my coach left me with after hearing my story. He told me that "if you've never been cut from any teams before, you simply haven't been trying hard enough." I believe what my coach said rings especially true today.

While we celebrate our successes, our failures should also be acknowledged. Failure means two things. The first, is that you didn't succeed. This is the definition and nature of the word. The second thing is that it means you tried. This meaning of the word is implied, and therefore often overlooked. Do not undervalue effort. You can go through your whole life without failing. It would be pretty easy, I imagine. You just wouldn't try at anything. You can't fail if you don't try. You can't get cut from a baseball team if you don't try out. And you sure as hell won't get a stupid letter of rejection from Notre Dame if you never bothered to apply.

Therein lies the beauty of failure. All of our efforts, all the hours put in after class, before school and at lunch, are they simply wasted if we don't get in to our top university of choice? No! You grew as a person, you learned the course material, even if only a small percentage, and all of this through the virtue of trying, and failing. Look at you, you failures. Luke Tao. You failed to get into a single US university, out of Harvard, MIT, Stanford and others. Max Livingston. Max Livingston started a YouTube channel about books. Max, your YouTube channel about literature? An absolute failure. Nick Christoffersen. I haven't checked the TFC site, but I can guarantee you haven't saved every shot taken this year. I can also guarantee everyone in this graduating class has failed at something. Luke Tao, I come back to you. Luke Tao founded math club, was the MVP of the badminton team, was our sports prefect, then our academic prefect, and was accepted at one of Canada's premiere computer science programs at Waterloo. Max Livingston. Even if no one ever watches your videos, not a single person, you still read the books, you still took the time to organize your thoughts and opinions, and you still grew as a person as a result of the process. Factfulness, The Prince, Heart of Darkness, The Alchemist, and Moby Dick, just to name a few. Nick Christoffersen. You haven't saved every shot, but you're still training what feels like 8 times a week, learning the game, getting stronger. And you still get to go to UPenn when it's all said and done.

Everyone at this school has two things in common; we've all failed at something in the past 4 years, and we've all been fortunate enough to do it in as safe an environment as RSGC, a place where failure is not only tolerated, but encouraged. A place where, if and when you fall, you won't have two hands, or even three, reaching to pick you up. Rather, the united hand of a collective and of a community. A place where you are taught to play out of your league, to push boundaries, and to fail all the while.

Think not of these failures as a commentary on success, but rather evidence of effort. If I could provide one piece of advice to my graduating class of brothers, it would be this: Never avoid trying, in fear of failure. So, brothers get out there, and keep failing. Fail early, and fail often.

Thank you.
